Leisure Activity Participation and Risk of Dementia

An 18-Year Follow-up of the Whitehall II Study

Neurology® 2021;96:828. doi:10.1212/WNL.0000000000011447

In the article “Leisure Activity Participation and Risk of Dementia: An 18-Year Follow-up of the Whitehall II Study” by Sommerlad et al.,¹ the second sentence of the Results section should read “During 147,774 person-years at risk, 360 incident dementia cases were recorded (incidence 2.4 per 1,000 person-years).” The short version of the article, published October 28, 2020, should also have stated “incidence 2.4 per 1,000 person-years.” The authors regret the error.

RETRACTION

An Alternative to Vitamin D Supplementation to Prevent Fractures in Patients With MS

Neurology® 2021;96:828. doi:10.1212/WNL.0000000000011856

The Editors retract the article “An Alternative to Vitamin D Supplementation to Prevent Fractures in Patients With MS.”¹ We previously published an Expression of Concern² about this Letter to the Editor along with several other articles by Y. Sato and others. Since then, the other articles in the Expression of Concern have been retracted.

The Letter to the Editor is strongly reliant on several of its references also authored by Y. Sato. We have learned that references 2, 4, 5, 6, and 7 in the Letter have been retracted by other journals and therefore retract this Letter.
